MORE DYNAMITE.

London Again Excited by a Dynamite Ex plosion-The Admiralty Building the Ecene of the Explosion.

LONDON, April 23,-At 11 o'clock this amorning an explosion occurred in the basement of the Admiralty building. The building was badly damaged and many persons were injured. Among them were some of the head officials of the department. The explosion was undoubtedly caused by guncotton or dynamite.

in the Admiralty office in White Hall, at "Il o'clock this afternoon, by an explosion in a room in the basement of that building. The firemen and police were promptly summoned, and all the gates of the Admiralty building were closed. A special guard was at once posted and no person was allowed to enter or depart from the premises until a thorough examination could be made. It is supposed that the explosion was caused by the premature discharge of a projectile which had been sent to the Admiralty for examinabadly damaged the room in which it occurred, and set it on fire. The officials and fremen soon extinguished the flames. Mr. William S. Caine, M. P., Civil Lord of the Admiralty, was summoned by telegraph, and he shortly afterward arrived at the scane of the explosion.

At first it was reported that the explosion was caused by dynamite and that it was the ontcome of a plot hatched by either dynamiters or nihilists for the purpose of hampering the war preparations of the British Government. A prominent Scotland yard detective asserts to day that the nihilists in London have suddenly become very patriotic in their conversation since the controversy between England and Russia regarding the critical stage. The employes of the Admirality office have been working day and night for some time past in order to horry forward the war preparations for the Soudan and for other purposes, and any disaster to the building at present would cause serious delay. An inspector, after a cursory examination, expressed doubt as to whether the explosion was caused by gas, gun powder or

The explosion occurred in the Secretary's department. Mr. Edwin N. Swainson, Assistant Secretary and principal clerk, received a severe scalp wound. It is said that other officials were also in nred, but none so seriously as Mr. Swainson.

It is now believed that the explosion was not accidental, but that it was caused by either gun cotton or dynamite was used to cause the explosion. Mr. Swainson's room, in which the explosion took place, was made a complete wreck. The adjacent corridors were very much damaged, while all the windows fronting on the Horse Guards parade were blown out. No arrests have been made up to this hour, nor anyone been detained, even on suspicion. No clue of any kind origin of the explosion. The walls and other principal parts of the building are uninjured. in addition to the severa scalp wound, Mr. Swainton also suffers from severe concussion of the brain. It is expected, however, that he will recover from his injuries.

2:30 p. m -The room occupied by Mr. Swainson, and in which the explosion occurred, is on the ground floor and immediately back of the Admiralty office. It overlooks the yard in front of the residence of Lord Northbrook, the First Lord of the Admiralty. The plaster of the room hangs in ribbone from both walls and ceiling. The fittings of the room are smashed into atoms. The marvel now is that a more serious damage was not done to the occupants of the reom. Mr. Swainson, who has been restored to consciousness, gives it as his opinion that the explosive, whatever it may have been, was thrown into the room through a window. A rumor is now in circulation that two men bearing a package were seen, just previous to the explosion, mounting a wall near the Secretary's department. The explosion took place at 10 50 this morning. Two loud and quick reports were heard; consternation took possession of all persons in the vicinity. It is supposed that the explosive was thrown over the wall in the rear of the Admiralty building and facing the Horse Guards parade. The explosion occurred close to, but not in Mr. Swainson's room, as stated in the earlier reports. The stair-case leading to the board room, which is located in the southwest corner of the bailding, was demolished. The iron railing on the staircase was wrenched from its fastenings, and windows within fifty yards of the spot where the explosion oc-by several persons reconnoiterin ; yesterday, and this morning the same men were seen to enter the garden in front of Mr. Swainson's office from the direction of the Horse Guards' parade ground. One of them carried a tin can, which was placed in a recess of the passege way leading to the office. The movements of the two men attracted but little attention at the time, owing to the fact that several susveyors and a number of workmen have recently been engaged in measuring distances, etc., on the grounds, and those who saw the two men believed that they were employes of the Government anyaged in the same sort of work. Two cfiicials of the Government took such particular notice of the two men that they claim they cen identify them, even if placed in a crowd of other men. They have given a good de-scription of the suspected men to the detectives, who are now working up the case. There was only one explosion. Mr. Swainson, who, it is now ascertained, was the only person injured, was taken to a hospital.

4 p ta .- Admiralty officials now state that they yesterday observed the two men who are suspected to have caused the explosion. They were thought by the officials at the time to be the assistants of the surveyors before mentioned from the description given of the two men who were seen to-day enter The face of a small American clock, biackened by the explosion, together with some pieces of clockwork attached, was found among the debris during the examination, which followed soon after the explosion. The Admiralty officials suppose that these fragments are parts of the infernal machine which caused the explosion.

6 p. m.-A strong suspicion now prevails in police and official circles that the explesion in the Admiralty office was the result of private matice, as Mr. Swainson was greatly disliked by a number of persons, including several employes of the office. It is certain that the infernal machine was placed in a book case just over the spot where Mr. Swainson's head would be when sitting at his desk. The detectives are positive that the outrage was the work of an employe, as no stranger could pass the sanitor without some document showing that he bad business with some of the heads | speed. of department, and the panitor says no stranger, to his knowledge, has passed his door during the past twenty-four hours.

Bosphore Egyptian Trouble Reported Settled.

London, April 23.-It was positively rumored in the lobbies of the House of Lorde, this evening, that the English and French governments had effected an adjustment of the Bosphore Egyptian trouble.

Explosion surmises,

LONDON, April 24.-It is now quite clear that the explosion yesterday was not caused by gas. Officials are of the opinion that it 11:30 a. m.-Great excitement was caused | was caused by the spontaneous ignition of a specimen of torpedo explosive, which had been sent to the Admiralty for inspection. The general belief is that the explosive agent was not dynamite.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN PROBLEM.

All Hope of its Peaceful Solution Adandoned-Russia's Ultimation,

London, April 23,-Information which has been received at Vienna from St. Petersburg political circles creates a great sensation. It is to the effect that the only condition on which peace can be assured is that England shall 1 12:30 p. m .- The explosion this morning acknowledge the complete neutrality of Atghanistan, and the extinction of English influence in the Ameer's country. In this case only, it is said, is a peaceful understanding between England and Russia possible. This demand on the part of Russia has been communicated as an ultimation to London. The highest military circles in Russia are bringing great pressure to bear on the government to declare war. They say that the chances for victory for Russia were never so favorable as at the present time. Russia, it is further said, is only awaiting the moment when the Volga shall be freed of ice. as the river is essential for the transportation of her troops. The Journal De St. Petersburg, in a review of Sir Peter Lumsden's report to Mr. Gladstone upon the affair between Russian and Aighan troops at Penjdeb, says that the report is based upon statements from Afghan sources, and if it contradicts the precise and complete report previously made by General Komaroff, Commander of the Russian forces operating upon the border of Afghanistan. then Mr. Gladstone need not be surprised if Russia prefers to rely upon the testimony of her General. The Journal adds: "It is use less to pursue the polemics on the subsidiary points whea the main question to be settled is the delimitation of the boundary between Russia and Afghanistan. It is now regarded as certain that Rossia remains calm, conscious of the gravity of the situation and confident of her ability to cope with the emergency. Russia will be happy to see realized Earl Granville's wish that all existing differences between England and Russia shall be settled peacefully." The Government's estimate requires that 35,000 men shall be added to the present force of the army.

The Contintental press appear to think that war between Russia and England is inevitable. The Kolnische Zeitung, Berlin," says that both England and Russia desire peace, but neither knows how to go about obtaining it.

The European press generally comment favorably upon the speech made by Mr Gladstone in the House of Commons, Tuesday afternoon, on the occasion of asking for the vote of credit. His statement is characterized as dignified and resolute. There is Treasurer, J. H. Moorman: Clerk, William general revulsion of feeling toward the belief that war is now inevitable.
